Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, a social services agency, for example the department of health and family services, the department of corrections or a county department of human services or social services, may not make available for inspection or disclose the contents of any record kept or information received about a child in its care or legal custody, except under certain exceptions. One of those exceptions permits a social services agency to make available for inspection or to disclose the contents of a record concerning a child to the parent, guardian or legal custodian of the child on the request of the parent, guardian or legal custodian, unless the social services agency determines that inspection of the record by the parent, guardian or legal custodian would result in imminent danger to anyone. This bill requires a social services agency to make available for inspection or to disclose the contents of a record concerning a child to the parent, guardian or legal custodian of the child on the request of the parent, guardian or legal custodian, unless the agency petitions the court assigned to exercise jurisdiction under the children's code and the juvenile justice code (juvenile court) for an order prohibiting the agency from making available for inspection or disclosing the contents of the record to the parent, guardian or legal custodian and the juvenile court, after a hearing and an inspection of the record, determines that inspection of the record by the parent, guardian or legal custodian would result in imminent danger to anyone.

Under current law, with certain exceptions, any school psychologist, counselor, social worker or nurse, and any teacher or administrator designated by the school board who engages in alcohol or drug abuse program activities, must keep confidential information received from a pupil that the pupil or another pupil is using or experiencing problems resulting from the use of alcohol or other drugs. This bill provides that any such information received about a pupil must be disclosed to the parent or guardian of that pupil upon the request of the parent or guardian, unless the school board petitions the juvenile court for an order prohibiting disclosure of the information and the juvenile court, after a hearing and an inspection of the information, determines that disclosure of the information to the parent or guardian would result in imminent danger to anyone.

Currently, the parent, guardian or person in place of a parent of a developmentally disabled minor has access at all times to the minor's court or treatment records for mental illness, developmental disability, alcoholism or drug dependence unless the minor is 14 or older and files a written objection to the access. Parents, guardians and persons in the place of parents of other minors have the same rights of access to the court and treatment records of the minors as do the minors themselves. This bill requires access by a parent, guardian or person in the place of a parent of any minor to the minor's court or treatment records at all times.

Currently, contents of patient health care records may be released only with the informed consent of the patient or of a person authorized by the patient or, without informed consent, to specified persons. A "person authorized by a patient" includes the parent, guardian or legal custodian of a minor patient. Thus, a parent of a minor patient may provide informed consent for release of the minor's patient health care records to himself or herself. A patient or other person may inspect and receive a copy of a patient's health care record by submitting a statement of informed consent. This bill clarifies that the informed consent for inspection and receipt of a patient's health care record may be that of the patient or of a person authorized by the patient.

Currently, only the parent or guardian of a minor under age 14 may have access, without the informed consent of the minor, to the results of a test for the presence of HIV (human immunodeficiency virus, the virus that causes AIDS). This bill permits the parent, guardian or person in the place of the parent of any minor to have access, without informed consent, to any results of the minor's test for the presence of HIV.
